Profile

I graduated from the Belarusian State Economic University and worked as an accountant for about 8 years, but I didn't see any more opportunity for growth and development in it. So I decided to change my field of activity and chose Web development because it is an area of constant growth, learning new things, and creating interesting thing and it also allows you to immediately see the results of your work.

Now I have been studying Frontend technology for about a year, with the help of different online courses and tutorials. I have no commercial experience, but I constantly create my own projects and solve various problems to put my knowledge into practice

I love to constantly learn, grow and create interesting things!

In my free time I like to read books, draw, do handicrafts and study foreign languages.
